- w Morgan Patrick, raised in Boone, North Carolina, came to the Buzz by way of an extensive radio career.
- w His education started just down the road at UNC, where he graduated with a BA in Broadcast Journalism.
- w Morgan worked as News and Sports Director in Myrtle Beach, as a Sports Show Host/Reporter for WCHL in Chapel Hill, and worked with the Tar Heel Sports Network.
- w Morgan started at the Buzz in 1998 and now serves as Sports Director, weekday host at WRBZ, and Friday night host of "Pig On The Pole" (the Triangle's only local radio show dedicated to NASCAR).
- w He has always played sports. "Football, basketball, baseball, swimming, they have been a part of my life for as long as I can remember," says Morgan. Morgan has added a few more favorite sports including NASCAR and golf.
- w During Morgan's decade long career he has had the pleasure of covering the North Carolina sports scene including NCAA basketball national championship runs and the Carolina Hurricane's historic Stanley Cup campaign in 2006.

Why do you like working at the Buzz?

"It's like a family...if you are part of a family, you know what I mean."
